Message

FROM THE PRESIDENT OF COL

The Commonwealth of Learning is continuing the tradition of recognising and honouring excellence in distance education through awards to be presented during the Sixth Pan-Commonwealth Forum on Open Learning (PCF6). The Forum will take place in Kochi, Kerala, India from 24-28 November 2010. Since its inception as part of COL's tenth anniversary celebrations, the programme has honoured 39 individuals and 22 institutions. These awards are highly prized by the winners and the conferment ceremony has become a high point of the Pan-Commonwealth Forums on Open Learning.

There are four categories of awards designed to recognise excellence: at the institutional level; in the development of learning materials; in student accomplishment and for a lifetime achievement in and contribution to open and distance learning.

I encourage our colleagues and friends in open and distance learning to submit nominations for the awards and to attend the Sixth Pan-Commonwealth Forum on Open Learning. The Forum is being jointly organised by COL in partnership with Indira Gandhi National Open University (IGNOU).

PCF6 will explore how open and distance learning can help to achieve the international development goals and education for all. The conference theme is "Access and Success in Learning: Global Development Perspectives", with a focus on four key areas:

- Social Justice
- Community Development
- Skills Development
- Formal Education

The Forum's website is www.col.org/pcf6

Sir John Daniel
President and CEO

Honorary Fellows ^{OF COL}

The designation of Honorary Fellow of COL recognises outstanding individual contributions to distance education in areas such as: leadership/service, published works (including courseware), lectures/presentations, international/national presence and mentorship.

COL does not seek nominations for this award.

HONORARY FELLOWS OF COL (2008)

AWARD OF EXCELLENCE FOR Institutional ACHIEVEMENT

COL will present up to three awards for institutional excellence. The awards recognise significant institutional achievements in the innovative and effective application of learning technologies and open and distance learning (ODL) methodologies to reach students who might otherwise not have participated in the learning or training experience.

Submissions are invited from publicly funded or not-for-profit organisations and institutions in the Commonwealth that offer courses through ODL. They will be judged on the following criteria:

- Significant institutional achievement, quality of courses and programmes offered;
- Effectiveness of course materials and learner support system;
- Effective use of appropriate technology;
- Outreach to remote, rural and marginalised communities; and
- Relevance of programmes to the Millennium Development Goals, Education for All and Commonwealth objectives (peace, democracy, equality and good governance).

Submissions must include:

- A statement of no more than 1000 words describing the achievements of the organisation/institution and how these relate to the themes of the Sixth Pan-Commonwealth Forum on Open Learning.
- An abstract of the statement in no more than 150 words.
- A description of the course material development process.
- A description of the learner support system.

- Category A: materials in print, audio or video, or a combination of these
- Category B: interactive, electronically delivered materials, which may be supplemented by materials developed in other media

COL will present up to three awards in each category. The materials may be in any language used in the Commonwealth; however, an English version of the material should be available for evaluation. The materials for Category A should be primarily print, audio or video (or a combination), while the materials for Category B should be digital, interactive and delivered through CDs or a website.

To enter materials for consideration of this award, you should:

- Follow the guidelines carefully and provide the information requested in the pro forma, which can be downloaded in PDF format at www.col.org/ede;

- Submit sample materials (not more than two physical copies (print, CD or DVD) or the address for the website (along with clear instructions on how to access sample materials) together with your application.

COL evaluators will use the sample materials and the completed submission according to the requirements outlined in the pro forma to draw up a list of materials to be examined in detail. Those short-listed will be requested to send a complete set of materials, or instructions on how to access a complete set electronically.
