COMMONWEALTH HEADS OF GOVERNMENT MEETING

St. John's, Antigua and Barbuda | November 2026

COMMONWEALTH of LEARNING

COMMUNIQUÉ ON ARTIFICIAL INTELLIGENCE GOVERNANCE AND EXISTENTIAL RISK

October 2026

Produced and endorsement by the Commonwealth Student Community on AI Governance

Voice of the Youth in Global AI Governance

Preamble

We, the youth and student leaders of the Commonwealth Student Community on AI Governance, representing over 1.6 billion young people under the age of 30 across 56 member states;

Welcoming the collaboration between the Commonwealth Student Community on AI Governance and the GPAI Student Communities supported by the Centres of the GPAI Expert Community;

Recognising the operational model pioneered by the India Student Community for AI at Bharat Mandapam in February 2026 and subsequent national chapters across Asia, Africa, Europe, the Caribbean, and the Pacific;

Guided by the core pillars of self-governing National Student Coalitions, Interdisciplinary Research Units, Evidence-Based Policy Advocacy, and Institutional Integration;

1. Recalling the fundamental commitments of the Commonwealth Charter to equitable development, human rights, peace, youth empowerment, and the responsible stewardship of science and technology;

2. Acknowledging that young people constitute over 60% of the Commonwealth's 2.7 billion citizens and represent the primary demographic entering academic institutions, civil service, and labor markets currently being transformed by automated systems;

3. Deeply concerned by the growing digital divide between well-funded urban hubs and under-resourced rural campuses, as well as the risk of digital neo-colonialism stemming from dominant Global North AI platforms that risk erasing local Commonwealth languages, knowledge systems, and cultural priorities;

4. Mindful of the daily exposure of students and early-career workers to automated admissions, algorithmic evaluation, data harvesting, and hiring systems, which demand urgent governance safeguards and transparency protections;

5. Alarmed by the unconstrained global acceleration toward Artificial Superintelligence (ASI) systems possessing cognitive capacities vastly surpassing human intelligence across all domains and the catastrophic, existential risks such technologies pose to humanity, civil society, democratic institutions, and national sovereignty if allowed to flourish without strict alignment, oversight, and containment;

6. Recognising that uncontrolled ASI poses a unique threat to the authority of sovereign governments, risking the total erosion of democratic decision-making, the destabilisation of global financial and security systems, and the irreversibility of autonomous decisions made beyond human control;

7. Welcoming the national policy memorandums, evidence plates, and regional consultations conducted across member states including Pakistan, Sri Lanka, Kenya, Singapore, Australia, Cyprus, and the Small Island Developing States (SIDS) as direct evidence of youth capacity in shaping complex technology policy;

I. Existential Risk Prevention and Governance of Artificial Superintelligence (ASI)

Heads of Government must enact proactive global and regional safeguards to ensure superintelligent systems remain strictly aligned with human survival and democratic control:

Binding Alignment and Containment Protocols: Mandate international safety, alignment, and technical containment standards before advanced models reach frontier thresholds capable of autonomous reasoning or recursive self-improvement.

Sovereign and Multilateral Kill-Switches: Require hardware-level safety limits, sovereign compute controls, and multilateral oversight mechanisms capable of halting non-aligned or unmanageable frontier systems.

Prohibition of Autonomous Threat Integration: Strictly prohibit the integration of unverified autonomous systems or ASI models into sovereign defense infrastructure, nuclear command chains, critical power grids, or core democratic electoral processes.

Protection of State Sovereignty: Prevent corporate or foreign technological monopolies from wielding ASI capabilities that undermine state governance, national self-determination, or democratic institutions.

II. Equitable Infrastructure, Compute Access, and Frugal Innovation

Heads of Government are urged to address structural digital divides and establish inclusive computing foundations:

Subsidised Compute and API Access: Establish national compute pools, subsidized API credits, and dedicated allocations within National AI Innovation Funds for student researchers and youth founders, alongside scholarships, research grants, mentorship, and technical assistance, particularly in resource-constrained countries.

Rural and Regional Infrastructure: Expand rural AI laboratories and regional computing nodes to prevent the concentration of technological capacity solely within capital cities and private entities, while improving access to reliable internet connectivity, electricity, digital devices, and digital learning infrastructure.

Frugal AI and Climate Tools: Support the development of "frugal AI" architectures designed for low-bandwidth, resource-constrained environments, including offline-capable solutions, with dedicated shared climate-prediction tools for Small Island Developing States (SIDS) and vulnerable ecosystems.

III. Linguistic Sovereignty, Local Context, and Cultural Preservation

To counter algorithmic bias and linguistic erosion, member states are urged to ensure generative AI models reflect the linguistic and cultural diversity of the Commonwealth:

Open-Source Local NLP: Allocate state research funding to open-source Natural Language Processing (NLP) and Large Language Models (LLMs) in local and regional languages, including Hinglish, Urdu, Sinhala, Tamil, Kiswahili, Dhivehi, Maltese, and Cypriot Greek as well as underrepresented African, Caribbean and Pacific languages, Indigenous languages, regional dialects and creoles, including Hausa, Yoruba, Igbo, Nigerian Pidgin, Luganda, Setswana, Tok Pisin, Hiri Motu, Seychellois Creole and Portuguese

Community-Led Language Technologies: Promote community-led development of language technologies, with meaningful participation by local researchers, Indigenous peoples and cultural communities.

Indigenous Data Safeguards: Embed Indigenous Cultural and Intellectual Property (ICIP) protections into national AI strategies to prevent uncompensated extraction or misrepresentation of community knowledge, including traditional knowledge and cultural expressions, and to safeguard consent, attribution, privacy, data ownership and fair sharing of benefits derived from local data and cultural resources

Regional Strategic Alignment: Connect national youth AI initiatives with broader regional governance blueprints, such as the AU Continental AI Strategy.

IV. Institutional Reform, Academic Integrity, and Process-Based Education

Higher education systems and regulatory authorities must transition from restrictive measures toward ethical, transparent AI integration:

Curriculum Modernisation: Mandate multi-disciplinary AI literacy modules bridging computer science, law, ethics, sociology, public health, and economics across secondary and tertiary education with age-appropriate content and extension to technical and vocational education.

Process-Based Evaluation & Audit Trails: Replace blanket bans on AI with accountable use frameworks, including prompt-logging audit trails, proportionate to learning objectives, with clear requirements for disclosure, access and retention, and safeguards for personal, confidential and copyrighted information, and process-based academic evaluations.

Protection Against False Positives: Implement regulatory standards for academic AI-detection software to prevent bias and false- positive plagiarism accusations that unfairly impact non-native English speakers including independent evaluation of accuracy and bias across diverse linguistic backgrounds, and ensuring that no student is penalised solely on the basis of an automated detection score.

Digital Wellbeing: Address over-reliance on AI and emotional dependence on conversational systems, and promote digital wellbeing in view of the potential effects of AI on students' mental health, learning outcomes and human relationships.

Student Choice and Educational Autonomy: Recognise students' meaningful choice over AI use in education, including appropriate alternatives where AI use is unnecessary or where accessibility and technical barriers arise.

V. Algorithmic Transparency, Labor Protections, and Youth Governance

Recognising that young workers are the first cohort entering an automated labor market, Heads of Government must enact robust rights and representation frameworks:

Right to Explanation: Enact enforceable "Right to Explanation" laws against automated decision-making in academic admissions, grading, social benefits, and hiring algorithms and ensure that individuals affected by consequential automated decisions can challenge harmful or inaccurate outcomes and access meaningful human review, an opportunity to appeal without penalty, and appropriate remedies.

Human Accountability: Preserve human responsibility for consequential AI-assisted decisions, with appropriately qualified and accountable persons retaining the authority to review, override or halt such decisions.

Labor Transition & Reskilling: Establish statutory labor- transition support, entry-level job protections, and targeted re-skilling programs for sectors highly vulnerable to automation, such as garment and administrative work.

Fair Standards for Supply-Chain Labor: Introduce labor rights, safety protocols, and fair wage standards for data annotators, content moderators, and gig-economy workers.

Institutional Youth Representation: Formally designate a permanent Youth Seat on National AI Councils and ministerial advisory bodies to ensure continuous youth representation in policy design, through transparent and inclusive selection procedures that reflect the Commonwealth's regional, socioeconomic, disciplinary and cultural diversity.

Safeguards Against Misuse: Safeguard against the misuse of AI governance and monitoring mechanisms for unlawful surveillance, censorship, discrimination or the concentration of power.

Complaints and Redress: Establish accessible mechanisms for reporting AI-related harm, investigating complaints and providing appropriate redress to affected individuals.

VI. Ethical Infrastructure, Red-Teaming, and Environmental Sustainability

To ensure safety and ecological responsibility across the deployment lifecycle:

Independent Red-Teaming & Safety Audits: Institutionalise student-led and independent red-teaming initiatives to audit public and frontier AI models for safety vulnerabilities, rogue autonomous behaviors, and systemic bias prior to deployment supported by proportionate risk assessments, independent verification and incident-reporting mechanisms.

Environmental Impact Metrics: Mandate transparent reporting on the energy, water, and carbon footprints of compute infrastructure, including electronic waste, prioritising sustainable energy sources for data centers.

Public-Good Deployment: Encourage youth hackathons and innovation challenges targeting critical public challenges, such as community bushfire tracking, health access, and disaster management including responsible AI applications in healthcare and agriculture, subject to appropriate professional oversight, validation and safeguards for personal data.

Misinformation, Cybersecurity and Online Safety: Strengthen media and information literacy, fact-checking, cybersecurity awareness and cross-border cooperation to address AI-generated misinformation, deepfakes, fraud, impersonation, non-consensual synthetic imagery and other AI-enabled harms, while protecting legitimate expression, research and innovation.

IMPLEMENTATION AND CALL TO ACTION

Heads of Government are called upon to endorse this Communiqué and support its operational implementation through the following actions:

1. National Endorsement: Formalise support for National Student Coalitions by providing academic accreditation, steering committee endorsement, and logistical backing for student policy delegates.

2. Institutional Promotion: Circulate opportunities for youth governance participation across all public universities, TVET institutions, and national student unions without financial or technical barriers.

3. Commonwealth Governance Mechanism: Direct the Commonwealth Secretariat, alongside the Commonwealth of Learning (COL), to establish a permanent Commonwealth Youth AI & ASI Governance Working Group to review progress and existential risk preparedness at CHOGM 2028 with adequate financial, technical and institutional support, periodic public progress reports and opportunities for youth participation in monitoring and evaluation.
